Company-wide Support for Community Relations

- Since its inception, CommVault's Hockey Helping Kids program has increased awareness and financial support for children's organizations in need. Previous beneficiaries have included Ronald McDonald House, the FDNY 9/11 Disaster Relief Fund, Madison Square Garden's Garden of Dreams Foundation, Cammi Granato's Golden Dreams for Children Foundation, The Chicago Tomahawks, Savannah's Organic Ranch, The Social Communications Center for Autism Assistance and the Christopher and Dana Reeve Foundation.
- Typically, more than 20 CommVault employees participate in the Hockey Helping Kids events, which are held nationwide throughout the year. Several Microsoft employees are joining long-time employees and veteran hockey players from CommVault as the team faces off against an opposing team, which includes CommVault customers and players selected from an eBay auction. The proceeds of the team auction also will support the Philadelphia PowerPlay.

Supporting Quotes

From Randy De Meno, Chief Technologist - Windows Product & Microsoft Partnership for CommVault and Captain of the CommVault Hockey Helping Kids team:

- "We're looking forward to another fun-filled event that brings together our employees, customers and community partners to support an extremely worthy cause. As a long-time employee and member of the CommVault hockey team, I am grateful that CommVault understands the importance of giving back to the community, which enables us to broaden the national reach of the Hockey Helping Kids program and continue to enrich the lives of children everywhere."

From Karl Dittman, Principal Business Development Manager at Microsoft:

- "Microsoft is pleased to join the CommVault Hockey team once again in striving to increase support of nonprofit programs and charities that benefit children. We applaud CommVault's Hockey Helping Kids program, which has been instrumental in supporting a variety of excellent nonprofit organizations for nearly a decade."

From Patrick Hilferty, Founder and Manager of the Philadelphia PowerPlay:

- "The Philadelphia PowerPlay is very appreciative of CommVault's efforts to ensure that people who use power wheelchairs in their daily lives also have an opportunity to participate in competitive, athletic experiences, regardless of their abilities. Through CommVault's Hockey Helping Kids program, we will be able to reinforce our many programs within the community."
