Building on the company's leadership in managing and protecting critical enterprise application environments, CommVault is presenting at the upcoming Oracle OpenWorld 2011 conference, October 2 - 6, 2011, at the Moscone Center in San Francisco, Calif. Today's legacy approach to data protection for Oracle environments requires a multitude of non-integrated products to ensure data can be moved from tier-to-tier, location-to-location and finally off to tape. At Oracle OpenWorld, CommVault will describe how Simpana® 9 software with SnapProtect® technology can alleviate the performance burden on production servers, minimize business risk and deliver modern data protection capabilities independent of underlying hardware. All of which is made possible through a single-platform, integrated approach that eliminates the need to create and maintain scripts and manage multiple products in Oracle environments.
